

RUSSIA NOW IN NEED OF ADDED HELP

EIGHTEEN MONTHS OF HARD FIGHTING HAS DEPLETED RESOURCES AND STRENGTH OF THE RUSSIANS.

RUSSIA FOUGHT ALONE

Russians Feel That They Have Done Their Share and Want Other Allied Nations to Shoulder the Work.

Petrograd, Nov. 2.—Russia is worn out by the strain of war and must have help. Premier Kerensky told the Associated Press. He said "Russia claims it as her right that other allies should shoulder the burden of the war. Russia has been fighting eighteen months longer than England and has fought her battles alone and is fighting alone."

"The world must not lose faith in the Russian revolution because it is an economic one," the premier added, "and no one has the right to feel discouraged about it as it takes years to develop the stable government."

"America's useful way of helping Russia is in sending boots, leather, iron, and money," Premier Kerensky said. "It would be impossible for the United States to send troops because the difficulties of transport would be too great. Russia is not out of the war," said Premier Kerensky in answer to reports to the contrary. "Russia has fought consistently since the beginning of the war. She saved France and England from disasters early in the war. She is now worn out by the strain and claims as her right the allied nations should shoulder the burden."

Premier Kerensky explained while seated in the former private office of the emperor in the winter palace. The correspondent called attention to widely contradictory reports on Russian conditions, and asked the premier for a frank statement of the fact.

"It has been said by travelers returning from England and Russia that opinions among the people are not friendly but generally it is that Russia is virtually out of the war. It was not so," Premier Kerensky laughed. "That is a ridiculous question. Russia is taking an enormous part in the war. She has only to remember history. Russia has been fighting since the beginning of the war. England was already fighting. America was only observing. Russia at the beginning bore the weight of the fighting alone. We have fought since the beginning and now they must take the heavy part of the burden on their shoulders."

"At present Russian public opinion is greatly agitated by the question. Where is the Great British fleet now that the German fleet is out of the Baltic?" Premier Kerensky repeated. "It is worn out. She has been fighting one and a half years longer than England. Could an American army be of use to Russia?"

"It would be impossible to send one," said Kerensky. "It is a question of transportation. The difficulties are too great."

"If America can not send troops, what would be the most useful way for her to help Russia?" was asked.

"Have her send boots, leather, iron, and money," the premier added emphatically. "Money."

Premier Kerensky drew attention to the fact that Russia had fought alone. "Russia has fought alone—Russia is fighting alone," Kerensky

Petrograd To Be Defended To the End by Russians

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Nov. 2.—The provisional government of Russia has decided to defend Petrograd to the last extremity and abandon at present plans to change the seat of government to Moscow.

Cablegrams received here today said the commission for the defense of Petrograd had reached that decision because the critical situation made it indispensable that the government remain in Petrograd as long as the capital was not directly menaced by the Germans.

The constituent assembly it is expected will be convoked at Petrograd.

France had England to help her from the start and now America has come in.

The premier was asked regarding the morale of the Russian people and army. He answered that the Russian masses are worn out economically and the disorganized state of life in general has had a physiological effect on the people. They doubt the possibility of the attainment of their hopes.

"What is the lesson to the democracies of the world of the Russian revolution?"

"This," Premier Kerensky replied, "is for them to find out. They must not lose faith in the Russian revolution. It is not a political revolution, but an economic one and a revolution of fates. The revolution is only months old now. One has no right to feel disillusioned about it. It will take years to develop."

"In France, which is only as large as three Russian departments (states) it took five years for the revolution to develop fully."

PRELIMINARY DRIVE GAINS 51 MEMBERS

Mayor James A. Fathers Spoke of the Y. M. C. A. Influence in Army and at Home.

Preliminary reports on the Y. M. C. A. membership drive shows that up to noon today fifty-one new members were signed. This is very encouraging as most of the members have not yet put their best efforts into the drive. This because they had not had complete lists of prospects and other minor difficulties which usually arise at the beginning of every drive. The captains and their teams met at the Y. M. C. A. this noon at luncheon to talk over the advances so far made and to talk over other points of the campaign and program.

Mayor James A. Fathers talked of the superb work which the men in the Y. M. C. A. do and what good work is done for their own social advantages and the advantage of the boys in any branch of national service.

FUEL DEALERS MEET AT THE COURT HOUSE

Representatives of thirty of Rock county's forty fuel dealers were present at the meeting held at the court house this afternoon, called by Jesse Eule, County Fuel Administrator.

Mr. Eule explained the new marginal profit ruling in detail. This ruling states that dealers can only charge a gross marginal profit equal to 1915 margin, plus thirty per cent, and no profit to exceed the July margin of the present year.

A loyal spirit was manifest throughout the meeting, all dealers expressing a desire to give the public fair and square prices.

Agents Take Picture.

Milwaukee, Nov. 2.—Because he is alleged to have made objectionable statements, Henry F. Schumacher, a dry goods dealer, has lost a picture of the German royal family and one of the Kaiser, which he had in his home. The pictures were taken to the government building here after being seized by a federal agent.

AMERICAN TO HEAD AVIATION SECTIONS

Lieutenant William Thaw to Command Lafayette Escadrille According to Rumor.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Oct. 16.—Lieutenant William Thaw of Pittsburgh, may succeed Captain Theraut, the French army officer, as commander of the Lafayette escadrille, if present plans go through.

Captain Theraut has been in continuous command of the group of American aviators for almost two years—ever since the then Sergeant Thaw organized it as an exclusively American unit. The Frenchman is now in need of a rest, and it is reported that Lieutenant Thaw will be placed in direct command during the captain's absence, and that if things run smoothly, the position will be made permanent.

Sub-Lieutenant Raoul Givras, formerly of Wallingford, Conn., who has officially shot down fourteen German aeroplanes, has already been recommended for a full lieutenancy, and it is expected that he will be named second in command to Lieutenant Thaw.

Thus, for the first time, the escadrille would be composed of Americans and officers entirely and led by American citizens.

The American escadrille was organized by William Thaw in December of 1915. Working in conjunction with the aviation department of the French army, Thaw obtained the release of several Americans flying from France from the various French escadrilles to which they were attached, by incorporating them into a distinct American unit, except that Captain Theraut was placed in command. None of the Americans ranked higher than sergeant in those days, and Lieutenant Thaw was appointed as second in command.

Elliott C. Cowden, now in the United States, Bert Earl of Eagle Pass, Tex., recently instructor in the aviation school at San Diego, Calif., and Norman Prince, Victor Chapman and Kiffin Rockwell, all killed in action, comprised the original "Big Six," which formed the American escadrille. The escadrille as an American unit, received its baptism of fire at the beginning of the crown prince's offensive against Verdun in February of 1916, and Chapman was the first man killed.

Maynard, the first man killed, and Rockwell was the third of the original members. Soon afterward Cowden obtained his release and for a time was attached to a British escadrille. He returned to the American escadrille and obtained a transfer to the Rumanian front, attached to the Russian aviation service. When America declared war he obtained his release and returned to the American escadrille and proceeded at once to the United States.

Meantime, before the United States declared war, Secretary of State Lansing, through the ministry of foreign affairs, that the unit officially termed the "American escadrille," was disapproved by the authorities at Washington at a time when America was not actually at war with Germany. So the French requested that the name of the unit be changed and the title, "Lafayette escadrille," was adopted. The fighting strength of a fighting escadrille is about twenty men. With hundreds of American youths passing through the various aviation instruction schools in France and being placed as full-fledged pilots at the rate of more than a hundred a month, it is manifestly impossible that all can be received in the Lafayette escadrille. So the system is used—much as secret societies and fraternities in universities pick out eligible men whom they "bid in" to their ranks.

The Lafayette escadrille keeps tabs as closely as possible on information for the purpose of being placed at the various schools and to intimate to the French aviation authorities whom they would like as members of the escadrille.

Prison Busy.

Waupun, Nov. 2.—Busy times are ahead for the state penitentiary in this city. The prison must not only provide produce but shoes as well for its inmates, but all state hospitals and homes, county asylums, reformatories etc. A new shoe factory has just been placed in operation here and preparations are also under way to cultivate 1,900 acres of land for the raising of produce.

Price Fixed.

The price was fixed with the idea of giving both parties a fair decision. Immediately upon the arrival at a decision a telephone call was sent to Governor Philipp to inform him of the decision of the committee. The governor was pleased with the work of the committee and congratulated them on their success. He also urged the members of the committee who could find the time to go to Chicago to aid in the solving of the problem there.

It is now up to the governor as to what course to pursue in the case of the milk price. It is his desire to have a price which will be acceptable in this district so that the present law suits which have been started may be dropped resulting in universal satisfaction.

The members of the committee left early this morning where they will go into conference with Herbert Hoover at the Hotel Sherman. The efforts of the meeting will be directed to the early decision of the Chicago case. Due to the large amount of information which has been secured and compiled by the special committee appointed by Governor Philipp, the situation in the Chicago situation will be very much appreciated.

Those who made the trip were, Dean Russell, University of Wisconsin; Mortimer Fick, Walworth county; George Ellis, Racine county; J. L. Fisher, Rock county; John Lefebvre, Milwaukee; Dean Davenport, University of Illinois; and Professor McPherson, University of Illinois.

Small Gains Made by British Forces

COMMISSION IN SESSION IN CHICAGO WILL SET NEW PRICE

WISCONSIN MILK QUIZ COMMITTEE ARE IN CHICAGO TO AID IN THE SOLVING OF PROBLEM THERE.

Chicago Price Is Expected to Be Based on the Findings of the Committee Which Was in Session Here.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Harry A. Wheeler, food administrator for Illinois, was in conference today and as a result rumors went round that the milk strike which began yesterday would be settled at a price in the neighborhood of $3.20 per hundred to the farmers. The rumor was based on the action of the Wisconsin milk commission at Janesville, which was reported to have "fixed a price at about that figure."

There was a famine in milk in this city, resulting from the refusal of farmers to deliver to collecting stations in the country yesterday, and as there were practically no deliveries today, distribution was expected to be further curtailed tomorrow.

Madison, Nov. 2.—The report of the milk investigating committee will probably not be filed with the governor before yesterday. Dean H. L. Russell was expected to come to Madison and file the report with the governor. It was announced at the dean's office at the university this noon he was called to Chicago on the same question and not expected in Madison until tonight.

After an extended session which continued until ten o'clock in the evening, the special committee appointed by Governor Philipp to investigate and to set a price for the milk coming at Janesville, Dean H. L. Russell was expected to come to Madison and file the report with the governor. It was announced at the dean's office at the university this noon he was called to Chicago on the same question and not expected in Madison until tonight.

Immediately following the making of the decision the members of the committee of Mayor Fathers left for Chicago where they will meet with Herbert Hoover today to aid in the solving of the problem of setting the price in the Chicago district.

The price arrived at was the result of the securing of data from the various sources available in this state and by the testimony of experts in the business who were present at the meeting. Although the exact figures for the price are not available it is assured that it will be near $3.20 per hundred. The compromise price which would be acceptable to both the producers and the consumers of milk.

Mayor Fathers in a statement this morning said the price fixed was acceptable to both parties and that although some trouble was experienced both sides gave their best efforts to solve the problem in this city. The price was set for the public in general. The work of the meeting yesterday was mainly along the line of the setting of the price as all available data had been secured at this point by the committee. In Milwaukee where both parties were given the opportunity of presenting their sides of the arguments.

The price was fixed with the idea of giving both parties a fair decision. Immediately upon the arrival at a decision a telephone call was sent to Governor Philipp to inform him of the decision of the committee. The governor was pleased with the work of the committee and congratulated them on their success. He also urged the members of the committee who could find the time to go to Chicago to aid in the solving of the problem there.

WAR WILL BE DRAIN ON LUMBER SUPPLY

Milwaukee, Nov. 2.—An enormous drain on America's lumber reserve will be faced by lumbermen after the war. Just now the government's requirements are greater than ever before.

These two facts are compelling all lumber dealers and the government is preparing action to facilitate and insure meeting demands. This developed today in conferences with some of the leading hardwood manufacturers of the country.

It was pointed out that the reconstruction period after the war will be of greater magnitude, even than the destruction period—the war itself. Lumbermen have taken hundreds of years to build up their lumber reserves. Europe depends largely upon America for its lumber. There will be far greater demands after the war than have heretofore been experienced. It is all probability witness a resumption of building operations, laxed during the war.

England alone received nearly a quarter of a billion of lumber from the United States last year. A large part of this lumber came from Wisconsin, despite a somewhat vague belief that lumbering operations in Wisconsin woods had been hampered.

The town of Birmingham, England, alone, it has been estimated, will need more than a billion feet of lumber. American board measures for reconstruction purposes planned after the war. This plan, according to reliable information, places the number of houses needed to be replaced in Birmingham at 50,000. Such a reconstruction would be a heavy burden on the American lumber supply.

For obvious reasons the great building program could not be undertaken at once. It would be spread over a period of years, spreading the estimate over a period of ten years.

Not only will England undergo a great reconstruction period, but the rest of Europe. America has been supplying Europe needs so far as possible, prior to the war. One reason why America has not supplied more lumber and participated in the commerce of all kinds with foreign nations was lack of bottoms. With the great ship building program in America under way, it is broadly believed that America will have a merchant marine after the war greater than any other nation in the world. This will demand that America enlarge her commerce. She will be able to bear a heavier burden. There will be greater demands upon her resources than upon any other nation.

Wisconsin lumbermen and those of the entire country, are anxious to meet the demands of Uncle Sam.

RUSSIAN WEAKNESS HELPS THE ALLIES

(By International News.)

Washington, Nov. 2.—Whatever military weakness they may have brought upon Russia temporarily, the revolutionists who overthrew Nicholas Romanoff performed one valuable service to the allies. They kept Sweden from an active pro-German part in the war. The revolutionists here are almost unanimous in that opinion.

They say that as pressure increased gradually on all neutrals, Sweden finally would have been forced into the war. The situation was less so, and business men and the great masses pro-ally, although they still nurse their anti-Russianism.

Before the Romanoffs took to tending lower gardens in monasteries, all Sweden felt that an allied victory meant a whetting of suspected Russian appetite for Scandinavian territory. Every Russian move in Poland and Finland was watched with closest scrutiny.

The revolutionists' declaration for "no annexations and no indemnities" helped some. Their action giving Poland nationality and doing it generously to Finland, aided far more.

Although a small power, Sweden could give von Hindenburg 500,000 or 600,000 men in any move on the German border. Sweden would be used to winter campaigning.

Sweden claims to be hungry because of the allied embargo. Possibly this is so. Admittedly she has sent much food to Germany as well as munitions and iron ores from which Germany makes high-grade steel for the finer parts of guns and machinery. Her mission here asks to be allowed to import 350,000 tons of grain, 100,000 tons of oil, 200,000 of fodder and 300,000 of fat. She will not get this while the United States or an ally can use it.

Recent elections apparently have favored the more unfriendly cabinet officers may be ousted.

Another Mutiny In The German Navy Is Reported Today

London, Nov. 2.—Three officers and a number of sailors of the German navy were killed in "another" mutiny today early in the morning according to a dispatch from Amsterdam, to the Daily Express, which claims to have details. The outbreak occurred aboard the battleship Crown Prince and Schlegel-Holstein, and started when the men revolted against being drafted into the submarine service.

The sailors of the Crown Prince threw Admiral Schmidt overboard and captured and threw overboard Lieutenant Hall and another officer. A battle on the ship's deck between officers and sailors followed, in which three officers and a number of sailors were killed. Similar scenes occurred on the Schleswig-Holstein. Admiral Schmidt was rescued, but it was necessary for him to leave Kiel. All the surviving mutineers were arrested.

The battleship Crown Prince displaced 25,233 tons and was built in 1916. Her complement is 1,150 men. The Schleswig-Holstein, which displaced 19,066 tons and measured 13,000 tons, carried 729 men. Vice-Admiral Von Capelle, German minister of marine announced Oct. 9, the Reichstag discovered that in the German navy there were four mutinies and London reported the crews of four battleships of the German fleet had taken part in the mutinous outbreak at Wilhelmshaven. Three ring leaders were shot, while heavy sentences were imposed on others. This outbreak was to have occurred about the first of September. The admiralty accused three radical social democrats of taking part in the plot, but the German government has not taken any action against the members of the Reichstag.

TEN HUN AIRPLANES DAMAGED BY FRENCH

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, Nov. 2.—Ten German aeroplanes were brought down yesterday by the French and compelled to land in a damaged condition, the war office announced. The aeroplanes were shot down by French fighters. The French dropped 5,500 pounds of projectiles on Offenburg in the Grand Duchy of Baden in reprisal of the bombardment of Dunkirk.

Woman Sentenced.

Milwaukee, Nov. 2.—Carmela Musso was sentenced to Waupun for three years by Judge A. C. Backus in municipal court on Wednesday on a charge of larceny. This was her second offense. The woman was pardoned by Gov. Philipp early this summer while she was serving a life sentence for killing her husband in 1914. The plea was made that she would soon die if left in prison.

When caught in a department store Tuesday the woman had taken about $10 worth of merchandise. According to the store detective, Mrs. Musso was accompanied by two other women who got away. When placed under arrest she grabbed the detective by the throat and put up a fight to get away.

Former Policeman Wilbur Less than month after relatives had secured his release from the poorhouse and taken him to their home. John Lange, 82, former policeman of this city, died at St. Vincent's hospital. He was the possessor of considerable property, but he met with business reverses. When ill health and old age made work impossible for him any longer, he was taken to the poorhouse where his relatives found him.

Has Beerless Day.

Stevens Point, Nov. 2.—This city already has one beerless day weekly, even though Gov. E. L. Philipp has not yet heeded the petition of the "drys" to declare a state-wide beerless day during the continuation of the war. The saloons are closed on Sunday and city officials point to that fact as an indication that Stevens Point is already "doing its bit" on the beerless dry question.

PREPARE TO ATTACK THE HUN FORCES

ARE NOW PREPARING FOR A COUNTER ATTACK ON THE ADVANCING GERMANS.

TAKE NEW POSITIONS

New Position Near the Tagliamento River Has Been Chosen as the Scene of the Expected Battle.

(By Associated Press.)

Italian headquarters in Northern Italy (Thursday), Nov. 2.—Italian and allied troops are preparing for a counter offensive. A great battle base on the line of the Tagliamento river is forecast.

The cavalry rear guard continued to screen the movements of the main body of the Italian troops to its newly chosen position and at the same time to check the advance of the enemy lines.

General Cadorna's bulletin last night gives the first idea where the advance is making itself felt along the hills connecting St. Daniele del Friuli, the Ledra Peneval and Pozzo di Preda, making a line of some 100 miles west of the Isonzo river. Military necessity still restricts rigidly the sending of details of operations and the mention of circumstances within which these close limits some general idea can be given of the heroic resistance made the main part of the Italian army gave to the rush of overwhelming numbers.

The greatest shock came from the north, where the Isonzo first was crossed. Here occurred the weakening of the detachment of the second army, which General Cadorna's bulletin stated with the frankness of a bulletproof commander. It was this weakening which gave the German contingent the opportunity at a critical moment to pass forward beyond the position of the army on the north and a line further south.

Now began the double exposure of the southern force to fire in the front and on the flank, which retired a steady falling back until the army was in movement toward the newly established position farther west. During the prodigious movement of the main front and rear guard, the broad outlines of some sections sustained shocks of exceptional intensity. The commanding position of Monte Mero, which the Italians occupied after days of great fighting, was defended against onslaughts from three sides, which gradually grew to envelopment.

Added to this was the suddenness of the surprise blow from the north, which developed into a turning fire before the southern flank, and also on their extreme flank, gradually extending to their rear. It was this retreat of the troops from the situation that the retirement began along the line.

BRAZIL NOW MAKING SACRIFICES FOR WAR

(By Associated Press.)

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 2.—President Braz in a circular addressed to the presidents of the various states of Brazil declared that Brazil faced with the greater sacrifices which it will be called upon to make because of its entrance into the war. The president urged co-operation in keeping down expenditures as well as increasing agricultural growth, in order that Brazil may become the granary for the allies.

THOUGHTS TO THINK ABOUT

All the problems under the sun may be solved, one by one.

Haste hurries successward but is hindered on the way; progress makes haste slowly, but gets there first.

Find a fault and correct it; that's noble and true; excuse it, neglect it, it soon will be two.

General von Mackensen (on horse), General Cadorna (upper right) and Emperor Charles.

The three great outstanding figures in the present battle on the Italian front are General Cadorna, leader of the Italian armies; Field Marshal von Mackensen, in charge of the powerful German forces, and Emperor Charles, in command of the Austro-Hungarian troops. Von Mackensen has led successful attacks against Roumania and Russia. He now leads another powerful army, which together with the Austro-Hungarian forces outnumbers the Italians four to one.

HIS OWN

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Of the Extension Department, Moody
Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Having loved His own He loved them unto the end.—John 13:1.

This text has in it much of comfort, strength and assurance for the Christian.

His Own Property. Christians belong to the Lord in at least a three-fold way.

First by gift from the Father. In his prayer in John 17 our Lord says "thine they were and thou gavest them to me." They do not belong to themselves but to him—his own peculiar property, for they are his peculiar treasure.

The man of this world may rejoice in the gift of gold and silver, but our Lord rejoices in the gift from the Father of those he is pleased to call his brethren.

In the second place they are his own by purchase. He has paid to the uttermost farthing and now can say to them "Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price." That price was nothing less than his own precious blood poured out on the cross of Calvary. He gave his life for his sheep.

He laid down his life as a ransom for them. He was the "merchman" seeking goodly pearls who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it." The title to ownership of every Christian is his. They are his own peculiar property.

In the third place they are his by their surrender. As believers go on in their Christian life learning more and more of him, more and more do they surrender themselves to him. Some there are that try to withhold a part of themselves from him, but they are never happy, contented Christians. The fullness of blessing and of power never comes until in fullness of surrender the Christian yields himself unto the Lord, recognizing that he is indeed the property of him who loved him and gave himself for him. The measure of the Christian's daily peace and power is the measure of that Christian's surrender to the owner—the Lord Jesus.

His Own Care. Peter exhorts the Christians to be "casting all your care upon him for he careth for you." This last sentence might be worded, "It is his business to care for you," and he will care for each one of his own. As they are his property, purchased by such a price, he will guard them from all harm, protect them from all evil and set a hedge round about them against all that might injure them. Sometimes hard things come into the Christian's experience, but these may be the only way he can guard them from danger. He had to guard David from coming to the throne unprepared by allowing him a hard experience to come to him.

In the second place they are his own peculiar care to provide for. His provision is new every morning and fresh at eventide. It is never old nor stale. His own miss much that he provides by being out of his place. He told the ravens where to place Elijah's food and he told Elijah where to go.

His Own Loved. Having loved his own, he loves them to the end. Christians sometimes are tempted to think his love varies with their own changing affections. But he loves them always with the same unwearied love. Loves them in spite of failure, as the history of Peter so fully shows. Peter thought he would be ready to lay down his life rather than forsake him. But how quickly he was put to shame by the question of a stranger maid. How pitiful the failure as the oaths slipped from his lips! But did the Lord's love weaken? Nay, rather it burned, if possible, a bit brighter in his great heart and flamed out from his eyes, bringing Peter back to the place of bitter tears through which he saw the path of return. In the second place, he loves his own in spite of all backwardness. Think of him walking and talking with Philip for three years, instructing by example and by word all those days while he was about his father's business, only at the end to find that Philip had not learned the first lesson, but must needs say, "Lord show us the Father," not knowing "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." How trying such backwardness is, but to the great Teacher it did not lessen in any degree his love. The tender passion by which he held Philip was just as deep that moment when his backwardness was revealed as ever it was. Do not show any hint that his love for you grows cold when you discover how little progress you have made.

Always a Possibility. "If I were a young man again," said a mechanic in middle life, "I would go to the farm and become independent, and nothing could hold me." Is every young man sure he won't be saying the same thing some day?—St. Louis Pioneer Press.

DEFEAT THROUGH DRUNKENNESS.

(World's Temperance Sunday)

When Layard, with infinite toil, uncovered the bas-reliefs of the long-buried cities of the far-East, it was as if the modern world was introduced to the ancient. On those stony pages human hopes and fears of the long-ago were recorded. Conventional portraits of great war-lords, method of defense and attack of cities, armor defensive and offensive, treatment of captives—every thing is there in minute and exact detail. But all the while on the pages of the Bible the same scenes were depicted with equal fidelity. The written page answers the graven one. Each confirms the other. It is a sad comment on the legard moral evolution of the human race, in ideas ethical and customs humane, that so much space is taken to picture war and that incredible barbarities are depicted. Yet when these pictures of pen and chisel are laid down beside the scenes of the present, the real and vast progress of the race is discovered and this may be said in spite of the world-wide now warring. Then kings went to war as farmers go to harvest and for the same purpose. Now the intervals between wars are increasingly long, cruelty or even indignity to prisoners is rare and war for booty is a thing of the past. It may even be that Militarism is today committing suicide and that, in spite of all, the messianic dream is on the point of fulfillment. Perhaps after this darkest hour the day dawns, when there shall be no more garments rolled in blood, in which implements of war are to be converted into those of husbandry and the very science of war is to be studied no more. In the specific historic instance of this narrative, one custom that strikes the Occidental mind as ridiculous is illustrated. It is the interchange of bombastic threats and royal gifts through the military herald. There it was a device to create fear and panic among the enemy. Thus for example, Benhadad's heralds declared that such a host of invaders was coming that if each man only took a handful of earth away with him when he left, Samaria itself would be carried away bodily. That is like what one said at Thermopylae, namely, that Persian arrows would darken the light of the sun. Ahab's clever answer has passed into a proverb, or perhaps it was already a proverb, "Let not him that girdeth his armor on boast himself as he who puts it off." It corresponds to our adage "Praise not the day until evening."

The gluttonous, libidinous inebriation of that day of battle Benhadad spread a banquet and gave himself to drunken revel. That is what Belshazzar did when Cyrus was at his gate. The result was of course defeat in both instances.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

In spite of Jezebel's hate and Elijah's despair there were prophets left in Israel. Every real crisis of the human race in any age sees one arise, one whose clear vision is matched with clear speech. Self-obliteration and dauntless courage are his characteristics. His reward is usually to be killed. The moral earnestness of the true prophet commands respect of the most ignoble. He never hesitates to confront wickedness even though it be in the highest places. Truth faithfully spoken yields an intrinsic power all its own. A famous beauty once broke her looking glass because it showed the wrinkles on her face. Ahab displayed that spirit when he said of a certain prophet "I hate him because he always prophesies evil!" Arrant folly that!

In this instance the unknown prophet's message was more grateful. He indicates a plan of battle and assures success of it. In this case there is nothing necessary to supernatural. It is what any brave man with suggested Ahab's strategy might have done. Benhadad's abject bearing toward Benhadad has been the latter over-confident. This in turn led to laxity in discipline and military precautions. Benhadad's drinking himself drunk in company with the federated princes may have been intended to mark his contempt for a foe whom he considered as already conquered. The ready lection of the "squires of the knights" as the forlorn hope to make the first assault was wise generalship. They were picked young men, ambitious for military glory, with courage to go, few in numbers, against superior force. It is historically true that the greatest achievements in art, science, literature, discovery, conquest and religion have been made by young men. The fight of young men before a handful of Israelites is not incredible. History teems with analogous cases. In the panic the attacked often destroy one another. The very terms which Benhadad proposed show the inhuman cruelty of war as then waged. That was a political stroke of Ahab when he called a council, not of the bulk of the people, as Josephus says, but of those immediately concerned, whose property and families were in peril. That act knifed the most influential citizens in the king's cause. The decision of the council was rendered in that sententious, aphoristic form in which the Oriental mind still delights, "Harken not! Neither consent!" Drunkenness was Benhadad's real undoing. If he had been drunk he might have taken the field in person and rallied his panic-stricken troops as many a commander has done. Drunkenness has been a superior officer, who has the lives of men in his hands, or of a ruler to whom the keeping of the state is committed, is a high crime in the individual and a disaster to the many. Unfortunately Benhadad's line is not yet extinct. On the eve of a crisis, domestic, professional, or commercial, some men still "drink themselves drunk." Others, wholly innocent, as well as himself wholly guilty, reap the havoc of it.

This Big Aluminum Cereal Cooker

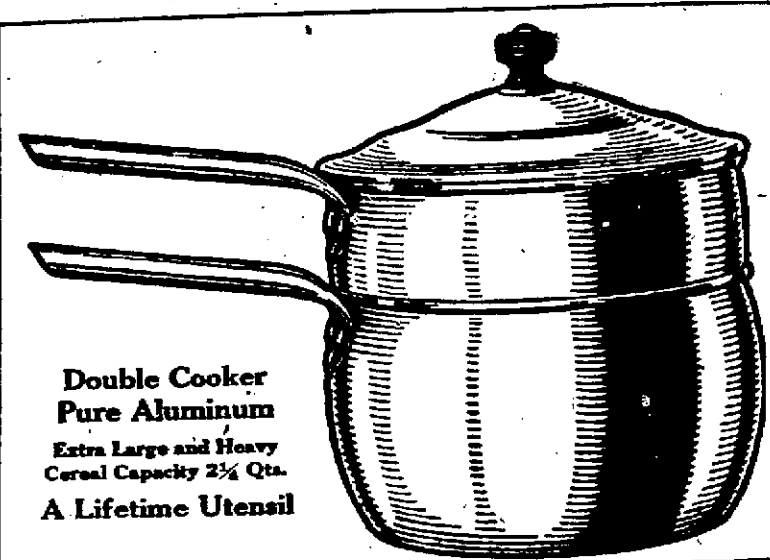

We make this One-Week Offer to Housewives here who have not had this Cooker. The cost of Aluminum has doubled. Cooker prices have enormously advanced. But, in fairness to those who missed it last year, we repeat this Dollar Offer

Cookers Supplied To a Million Homes

We have supplied Quaker Cookers to a million homes at very little prices. But the cost has advanced until our offer is almost impossible.

But grocers tell us that many housewives missed our former offer. They are using Quaker Oats and Pettijohn's, and they want this Aluminum Cooker. In fairness, they should have it.

So we renew this offer for next week only. It applies only to housewives whom we have not supplied already. It applies only to users of Quaker Oats or Pettijohn's, or both. It means twice as much as this Dollar Offer meant two years ago. Get this Cooker next week if you are entitled to it. You owe that to yourself.

Double Cooker
Pure Aluminum
Extra Large and Heavy
Cereal Capacity 2 1/2 Qts.
A Lifetime Utensil

To Rightly Cook Two Famous Dishes

We want every user of Quaker Oats and Pettijohn's to cook these cereals rightly. Right cooking makes them doubly delightful. It keeps the flavor intact. It makes them easy to digest.

This Aluminum Cooker has been made to order to meet exact requirements. It is extra large, so little or much can be cooked in it. It is extra heavy, made to last a lifetime.

This Cooker will next week cost you only $1, if you send us the trademarks we ask for. This is a costly offer. And we simply want to know, before sending the Cooker, that you are a Quaker Oats user.

This Offer One Week Only

Send us two trademarks (picture of Quaker) cut from packages of Quaker Oats. Also one trademark (picture of bear) cut from the front of one package of Pettijohn's. Or, if you prefer, send five trademarks from Quaker Oats alone. Send us $1 with these trademarks and we will mail the Cooker by parcel post. Trademarks must be mailed next week. This offer applies to this vicinity only. Address

Quaker Oats Which Saves You 75%

Measured by food value, Quaker Oats costs one-fourth as much as the average mixed diet. So each dollar you spend for Quaker Oats saves an average of $3. Oats stand supreme among grain foods, in nutrition and in flavor. They form a complete food, supplying every need. As an energy food their fame is proverbial.

Make this the chief breakfast dish. Meat and eggs cost five and six times as much. Also use Quaker Oats in bread and muffins, pancakes and cookies. No other food is so economical.

Use Quaker Oats because of the matchless flavor. It is made of queen grains only—just the big, plump, luscious oats. We get but 10 pounds from a bushel. Yet it costs you no extra price.

Pettijohn's The Laxative Luxury

Pettijohn's Breakfast Food is soft rolled wheat, hiding 25 per cent bran flakes. It is a flavor dainty of which no one ever tires. And it supplies the needed bran. Bran is Nature's laxative. Everybody needs it. Most folks would feel better if they ate it every day.

Fine foods clog the system. Bran supplies the needed roughage. Every doctor, as you know, urges its use, to avoid the need of drugs. Try it one week. Note the good spirits which result. Never again will you return to a branless diet.

Pettijohn's Flour is another bran dainty. That is 75 per cent white patent flour and 25 per cent bran flakes. Use like Graham flour in any recipe. With these two products every meal can include some bran-made dainty.

PERSEVERANCE.
(Consecration Meeting)

In the army of today the human foot is recognized as a very important member. Great pains are taken in the matter of foot-gear, to avoid blisters and chafing. No darned socks are allowed. There is regular "foot-inspection." St. Paul, the alert observer was familiar with the importance of feet being "shod with preparation" to the soldier of his day. Fred Douglass when running for freedom, said he "prayed with his feet."

It is surprising how far one can go even when on the edge of exhaustion. Many men in training are some dead in the last miles of a hike and one foot is put before another automatically. Whether one "wrestles" or merely "stands" the feet are the foundation of all. Not in the feet alone, but in every part, the soldier must keep "fit" if he would "fight a good fight." Shall less care be taken in the moral conflict on which so much depends. The whole armor, offensive and defensive, must be taken.

Egyptian Wheat.

Egypt in the most ancient times was celebrated for its wheat. The best quality was all bearded. The wheat was put into the ground in winter and some time after the barley. In the Egyptian plagues of hail the barley suffered, but the wheat had not appeared, and so escaped injury.

Rock County Soldiers Boys of Company G. National Army Need Money

Every member of Company G, 331st Machine Gun Company, is a Rock county boy.

Every Rock county man, woman or child is proud of its boys and the fact that they will represent the county in the country's cause of justice.

The government furnishes the boys with food, clothing, shoes, etc., but if they have any of the games, or entertainment devices, any athletic equipment, the purchase price must come out of their pockets or yours, and mine.

The Company Fund takes care of these necessary items, and you and I surely want the boys to be comfortable and occupied through the long dragging hours.

Will you give something to build the Company Fund and keep it going?

Sure you will. Fill in the blank and send today to the Gazette with your contribution to Treasurer, Fund for Company G, 331st Machine Gun Company.

Enclosed my Company C Fund contribution
I will also help support the fund in future as need be.

ECONOMY OR WHAT?

Those familiar with modern military organization will notice a striking discrepancy in the proportion of officers to the total number of prisoners captured in the last French drive on the Alsace. Out of 12,000 the total number of officers reported is but two hundred. But of officers up to the rank of captain up to the total of modern army up to at least four hundred. This is supposing that field officers of those of the rank of major and upward, were discharging their duties at a safe distance in the rear. If these were added, the proportion of officers not captured would be still more striking.

There is not much to be gained in bandying charges of cowardice and even the Germans themselves are abandoning that childish practice. It is true that the German newspaper writers were recently officially supplied with accounts of the wholesale slaughter of American raw recruits by the invincible German infantry at a time when not a single American had fired a shot. Stuff of this sort is considered for people anxious to be deceived, and is not taken seriously by the better informed Germans.

But the discrepancy in captured officers remains, and will take a great deal of explaining away. The officer class in Germany is, as the world has learnt, an exclusive caste with different standards and sanctions to men in command. It is the backbone of the German military machine, and it is perhaps possible to find in the figures a useful sidelight to the discrepancy in the great war machine.
 Even at the risk of a charge of cowardice these officers cannot be spared.
 Apparently the mere cannon fodder is still cheap enough. But an efficient officer is a highly specialized product which cannot be quickly replaced or re-exported, especially under the German system, which is by no means so flexible as our own or that of Great Britain.

Taken in conjunction with the desperate effort to put heart into the Austrians, now only too anxious to quit at any price, the fact is significant. It might almost be said that the German war machine has no longer a policy, but is devising expedients to keep up the waiting confidence of the people. It is true that our own officers, like the British, are all too prone to overestimate themselves. But there is an irreconcilable difference between this and the German loss in officers of less than fifty per cent of the true proportion to the other casualties.

RED TAPE.

There is a whole lot of red tape
 about the soldier's life that the average citizen does not know anything about. For instance, requisitioning arms, equipment, funds for entertainment, and other things, are made out and properly authorized on certain vouchers. These vouchers are turned in for inspection of the head of the department and if not properly filled out will be sent back and a delay expect before they finally are O. K'd and reach the proper department head to issue them. This is true even in state military affairs, which are modeled closely upon the federal laws relative to such procedure. There is just as much red tape about the newly organized state guard as there is about a company of regulars. The state holds one man responsible and he can not shift the responsibility. Failure of subordinates to perform their set tasks is not taken as an excuse at all and consequently every company commander is blamed for trivial failure when the fault really lies with his subordinates. This red tape may seem useless, but it is essential in handling any business. No firm or manufacturing establishment would countenance waste of supplies or raw material and consequently they should not expect the state or government to do so either. This newly organized state guard, which takes the place of the national guard during its absence in federal service, has a definite purpose of organization. It is a guard against disorders within the state borders during the absence of its regular defenders. The men who compose the various companies have enlisted with this understanding. The majority of them are over the age for active military service and the remainder are young men who may be subject to the draft later on or have been excused.
 Their action is to be commended.
 When they are needed—if they are—they will do their duty like men and true citizens. Meanwhile the system of red tape, the drills and the preparation must continue.

PLENTY TO EAT.

Word comes back to us from the enlisted men of the regular army from the men in the National Guard training camps, and the selective draft men, that they are getting plenty to eat and that all tales to the contrary are false. It will please many a mother to know that her boy does not go to bed hungry, even if he is now wearing the khaki and under military discipline. Of course he may not be able to slip into the pantry and raid the cookie jar or lunch on a doughnut
 or so, but he gets a big cut of pie, washed down with either a glass of milk,
 but he is well fed and happy. Uncle Sam has learned a whole lot about feeding his boys since the Civil war days and even since the days of Ninety-eight. He knows that men work better on a full stomach and keep in better health if fed regularly and with proper rations. The first Janesville soldier from Camp MacArthur, who arrived in Janesville on a furlough
 on a furlough, asked that the word
 be given out, "Everybody is happy.
 We have plenty to eat and enjoy life."
 This is cheerful news, but the citizens of Janesville and Rock county who contributed to the fund for Company
 M can rest assured that this contented spirit is due in a large way to the careful administration of the fund that was raised to add materials to the menu not furnished by the government.

ACTED WISELY.

Governor Philipp has acted wisely
 in his decision to ask the coming extra session of the legislature to empower him to name the man to take the seat in the United States senate,
 made vacant by the death of the late Paul Huston. It is predicted that the legislature will grant this request and that the man who is named will not be a politician, but one well qualified and mentally equipped to go down to Washington and show the true loyalty of the great state of Wisconsin to the expectant world. We have been made a target for criticism through the actions of our senior senator and all eyes are turned on Wisconsin to see what manner of man will be next selected to represent the state. The Gazette is confident that Governor Philipp will make a wise selection and the state
 as a whole will be proud of his selection,
 even if some ambitious politicians are not. It is now up to the legislature when they convene and it is to be hoped they will look on the matter
 in a sound manner.

THE SOLDIER'S MONEY.

According to General Pershing, our soldiers in France ought not to have more than ten dollars a month spending money apiece. His theory is that if the married men are sending all their money home, while unmarried
 men are spending it on themselves, an uncomfortable difference is created. Anyway the character of some men is such that some money that should come home to the families will be dribbled away in small change in the towns behind the trench line.

One's first thought is that the soldier's pay is small at best, and that he won't get any more luxuries and blow-outs than he ought to have. But it has to be considered that the British Tommies and the French Polus are not at all well paid. Too much a show of cash on the part of our boys might promote unrest.

The French look upon the American boys as their saviors. They are genuinely grateful, and they are too friendly a people to perform many mean acts. But it is the custom in Europe to look on every American as a millionaire. The French will be likely to derive a flourishing business with the Sammies, and to consider it legitimate to sell them anything they will carry off. The unmarried men would better tuck away any coins not needed into their insurance money.
 The married men will do well to send everything home they can.

A good many men will have all they wish to spend from private sources.
 Some will put it all into such choice
 comforts as can be bought or smuggled.
 They will need all such luxuries themselves. Others will be ashamed to enjoy anything until it has been passed around. It is a fair guess that the latter will be much the more common type. The hog class of the life will promote sympathy and a desire to share things.

No matter how many million soldiers the United States puts in the trenches, the Germans will never believe they are real Americans. Kaiser Bill has told them they are only Englishmen dressed up in our uniforms.

The Lord sends rain on the just and the unjust, and if he would send a little less on the unjust in Belgium just now, it would be a little easier to drive 'em out of their trenches.

Now if Kaiser Bill could have sold out those fifty odd castles of his,
 and buy Liberty bonds, he would have been sure of being able to cash the coupons at St. Helena.

The Germans went into this war to get more business, and as a result
 where they formerly had 100,000,000
 customers in the United States, now
 they merely have pro-German plotters.

After saving 25 cents by not putting in a Wanted to Buy ad, many people will pay $500 more for a house than would have been necessary had they advertised for offers.

The fact that some of the college professors will be dropped on account of shortage of funds, does not prove that the football coaches will lose their jobs.

Some people say no couple should marry on less than $1000 a month, but if that principle had been in effect
 they might not be here now.

After being sent out to find fifteen yards of skirmin line, the rookie in the army camps concludes that things are seldom what they seem.

The newspapers of Germany will be glad to advocate peace, provided only the peace advocates put up as much money as the munition-makers.

An excellent place for those coal
 men that have cached that million tons of coal would be right under the coal pile.

It now remains to be seen if the American people will dig in their pockets as the soldiers dig in at the trenches.

About time for summer hotels to burn up, but the accidental fires in the dry goods business won't occur until after the holidays.

"Informal football" as played at the colleges this fall, must mean that you can slug the other fellow if the referee isn't looking.

It is amazing what luck the other football team has when they win, and what a wonderful game we played
 when we win.

As usual the only correct dancing
 step this fall is something that no one knows how to do except the dancing
 teachers.

Some people are determined that the Liberty loan must succeed even if their neighbors put up their last dollar.

There will be no objection to the bean ball when our boys get to throwing those bombs over in the trenches.

It is denied that traitors should be electrocuted, as they should merely be hanged to the nearest lamp post.

The prize for the best advertising for Liberty bonds should go to the Germans who sank that transport.

A dearth of chestnuts is reported
 this fall, but it hasn't been noticed at the musical comedies.

Anyway the ten thousand Russians who are taken prisoners aren't killing their officers now.

Some people patriotically keep warm and save fuel by lying abed late in the morning.

The high price of skunk fur is accounted for by the growing scarcity of black cats.

Not merely do some automobiles
 look like hearses, but they help largely to fill them.

SUGAR TURNED OVER TO U. S. OFFICIALS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
 Washington, Nov. 2.—The Norwegian government was denied permission to export a large amount of sugar purchased here, and it has been turned over to the food administration for distribution by dealers. The sugar was sold to the government at actual cost, which is less than the present
 market value. The food administration in announcing the action of the Norwegian government did not make public the amount involved.

 meeting was called to order by the chairman, R. M. Richmond. The reports of the treasurer and secretary

 report of the work that has been accomplished, given by the supervisor,
 Dr. M. L. Ewing. These reports will be printed in the near future. Election

 next in order, and resulted in the re-election of the present officers, namely:

R. M. Richmond, Chairman.
 C. J. Peasall, Vice Chairman.
 Mrs. Burr Tolles, Secretary.
 A. D. Hartley, Treasurer.

After a short discussion relative to the benefit that is to be given for the organization on November 27, the play given by local talent, under the direction of Rev. Father McDermott,
 the meeting adjourned to meet in library hall this afternoon, at which time the following program was rendered:

"The South American Situation,"
 Mrs. Adelaide Spencer.
 "Whistless Day," discussion led by Mrs. Evans.

Biographical sketch from Frank Stockton, Mrs. Snashall.
 Reading from Stockton, Mrs. John Tuller.

 The meetings of the club are drawing a very large attendance this year,
 for the programs are highly interesting.

Shoots a Grey Fox.

After helping his father until the morning light was finished Rolfe
 Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Locke Pierce who live south of town, took his father's shotgun, remarking that he "guessed Rolfe would go up in the woods and shoot a rabbit." He accordingly did, but when he returned to the house about three quarters of an hour later, it was not a rabbit. He had shot but a grey fox, weighing about 125 pounds. The fox was stalking along in the Ed. Horne woods which joins the Pierce woodland, and was shot by the thirteen year old son while on the run, fleeing to escape. To say that Rolfe is delighted with his trophy is putting it mildly.

While coming down the stairs from
 the morning room the opera house a day or two ago, Mrs. George Magee slipped and fell, spraining her left ankle.
 It is improving rapidly and Mrs. Magee was able to be about yesterday.
 Mrs. A. E. Hanson of Woodford, Wis. is spending some time at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. A.
 Pease.

Mrs. C. C. Thomas and son Robert Charles of Saxonville are guests at the J. F. Waddell home on Church street.

The White Star Neighborhood club
 were entertained by Mrs. Ed. Horne Thursday afternoon at her home
 east of town.

Mrs. James Bert and John Eastman very pleasantly entertained the guests at the home of the latter, last Saturday evening in honor of Mrs.
 Victor Sager who is soon to make her future home in Janesville. The evening was spent in card games, Clarence carrying away first honors.

Delicious refreshments were served
 later in the evening after which, Mrs.
 Burt Eastman presented Mrs. Sager with a gift as evidence of the high esteem in which she is held by her friends and neighbors.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church were entertained at the country home of Mrs.
 Leedie Denison Thursday afternoon.
 Rev. and Mrs. Miller were guests of honor.

Miss Evelyn Rodd pleasantly entertained a party of young friends at a Halloween party at her home Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leedie Denison will entertain at dinner this evening Mr.
 and Mrs. Gilbert Van Wormer and the Misses Anna and Hazel Van Wormer.

CO. M. MEMBERS ARE PRESENT AT WEDDING IN TEXAS ARMY CAMP

Camp MacArthur, Oct. 26, 1917.
 Whew! We are going to have another cold evening, like last night. It seems so strange that it is so cold
 when Texas is noted for its warm climate the year around. The boys are standing the cold weather like
 the old grimmer, but are taking the bitter with the sweet like real soldiers.

This morning the supply officers of the regiment checked over all the property that had been issued to us by the government. Each man was required to display his cot in front of his tent with all equipment neatly arranged. Guns, clothing and all equipment were checked over thoroughly,
 and not a single article was overlooked.

The afternoon was taken up by a stiff drill conducted by the platoon leaders and the lieutenant in charge.
 Every man is putting forth his best effort in order that we may have the best drilled company in the regiment.
 Company M took part in a regimental parade this evening. It certainly looked entirely different to see our boys marching out on the field with a strength of about 206 men where heretofore we only had 144 men.

I have given a story on a military wedding in these columns once before but that was a Camp Douglas military wedding. We now have a Camp MacArthur wedding to tell about.
 The happy couple is Lieutenant Hafelemeister and Miss Elsie Fischer.
 First Lieutenant Ernest F. Hafe-meister, attached to the 128th Infantry regiment, is not going to be lonely some in Waco any longer. Yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, Lieutenant Hafelemeister was married to Miss Elsie A. Fischer, a Milwaukee nurse, who came across the country to cure
 Lieutenant Hafelemeister of the blues.
 The wedding took place in the infirmary and was performed by Chaplain Gustav Stearns of Milwaukee.
 Attendants were Captain J. E. Armitage, Lieutenant Frank Jackson and Mrs. Machus. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Raleigh and a theatre party followed.

The wedding of Lieutenant Hafe-meister is the first military wedding
 to take place at Camp MacArthur.
 The couple had planned to wait until after the war before marrying, but when the lieutenant arrived in Waco
 he suddenly became desirous of marrying. Miss Fischer, being informed of this loneliness, and having an idea that her presence here might help
 the situation, gave up her work and hurried south. The result was the wedding yesterday. Lieutenant Hafe-meister's home is in Milwaukee, and he was formerly connected with the First Wisconsin Regimental Infirmary
 at Camp Douglas.

Many of the boys are wishing for a little home cooking once again. It is not because we do not receive good meals here, but it does seem good to get home made "eat" once in a while.
 There is a woman that drives up to the head of our company street in a "Ford" every evening and disposes of pies, doughnuts, etc., to the boys.
 These are sold at a very high price,
 but the boys will soon be broke if they let their stomachs overcome
 their pocketbooks.

Company and Camp Notes.
 Buglers Staff and another are working hard these days and seem to make a good pair of buglers, just like our old friends "Ezekiel Joshua" Sartell and Berg used to. Although Staff and another are sold at a high price, "someone" back in Janesville like the other two boys.

Lieutenant Hafelemeister gave a nice
 talk to the non-coms this afternoon.

Kempis' Works Translated.
 The works of Thomas Kempis were written in Latin, but they have been translated into the language of almost every civilized people.

Well at Devil's Lake.
 Portage, Nov. 2.—Another well has been drilled on the shores of Devil's lake near Baraboo. It is 218 feet in depth and like the one 232 feet deep drilled many years ago, is believed to extend to the ancient bed of the Wisconsin river, which before the glacial
 period, so geologists have declared, flowed through the rocky gorge at the lake.

New General Manager.
 Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2.—James T.
 Gillick, formerly assistant general manager of the Milwaukee road,
 Thursday became general manager, succeeding P. C. Hart, who has been assigned to other duties.

Macy Nicholson, assistant to the operating vice president of the Great Northern, will succeed Mr. Gillick as assistant general manager of the Milwaukee railway.
 Mr. Gillick is a "Milwaukee" man, having served that company for the past two years. He was born in Glencoe, Minn., June 1, 1870, and began railroad service on the Hastings and Dakota division in 1885 as telegraph operator.

A colonial dinner table contained a roast turkey at one end of the table, a roast pig at the other and a sizeable baked ham in the middle. But cheer up, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, your kicker at the high cost of living. The dinner guests had to pay $1 each for amputation with which to fight off the Indians on the way to the feast.

NOTICE OF RAISE IN RETAIL PRICE OF CIGARS.

Most 5c Cigars Now 6c.
In placing this increased price in effect, it is, we believe, fully understood by our Retail Customers that further increased costs have been placed on the retailers of cigars and to this is added the increased revenue tax.
This new price of 6c each on cigars will be on those brands which include most all 5c cigars that cost us $35 and over per thousand.
During these times of increasing prices we have endeavored to have the interests of our customers before us at all times and have given, we believe, consideration that has been appreciated.
We thank the smokers of the city for their patronage and trust that our pleasant relations will continue.

MYERS THEATRE.

In "The Man From Wicklow" the new three act play in which Fiske O'Hara is starring this season and which he will present here Sunday, Nov. 4, the author, Anna Nichols, has carefully avoided any reference to the war and there is not a line or situation in the play to offend any nationalistic love play. It is a sweet, wholesome tale of a winsome little Irish colleen by the handsome O'Hara, who appears as Robert Emmett O'Donovan, a thoroughbred young Irishman, who sings his way to the heart of little Eileen, and his auditors as well, in a manner to further endear him to his already large and loyal following.

else do I think? Adele, do you mean your words? Would you give up all for me?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"But do you know what your choice means?"

I stood before him, brave in the darkness.

"Monsieur, I have faced it all. I know; the choice is made—will you take me?"

Then I was in his strong arms, and for the first time, his lips met mine.

CHAPTER XXII.

We Reach the River.

It was the voice of Boisronde which recalled us to a sense of danger.

"It is late, and we must not linger here," he insisted, touching D'Artigny's sleeve. "The guard may discover your absence. Rene, before we get beyond the stockade. Yet how can we get madame safely over the logs?"

"She must venture the same as we. Follow me closely, and tread with care."

So dark was the night I was obliged to trust entirely to D'Artigny's guidance, but it was evident that both men were familiar with the way, and had thoroughly considered the best method of escape. No doubt De Tonty and his young lieutenant had arranged all details, so as to assure success. We traversed the flat roofs of the chain of log houses along the west side of the stockade until we came to the end. The only light visible was a dull glow of embers before the guardhouse near the center of the parade, which revealed a group of soldiers on duty. The stockade extended some distance beyond where we halted, crunched low on the flat roof to escape being seen. There would be armed men along that wall, especially near the gates, guarding against attack, but the darkness gave us no glimpse. There was no firing, no movement to be perceived. The two men crept to the edge, and looked cautiously over, and I clung close to D'Artigny, nervous from the silence, and afraid to become separated. Below us was the dense blackness of the gorge.

"This is the spot," whispered D'Artigny, "and no alarm yet. How far to the rocks?"

"De Tonty figured the distance at forty feet below the stockade; we have fifty feet of rope here. The rock shelf is narrow, and the great risk will be not to stop off in the darkness. There should be an iron ring here somewhere—any, here it is; help me draw the knot taut, Rene."

"Do we—do we go down here, monsieur?" I questioned, my voice faltering.

"Here, or not at all; there are guards posted yonder every two yards. This is our only chance to escape unseen."

Boisronde tested the rope, letting it slip slowly through his hands down into the darkness below, until it hung at full length. "It does not touch," he said, "yet it cannot lack more than a foot or two. Faith! We must take the risk. I go first—Rene—hush! his best—so—the lady would prefer that you remain, while I test the passage. The devil himself may be waiting there."

He gazed down, balancing himself on the edge, the cord gripped in his hands. "Now mind my word; once on the rock below, I will signal with three jerks on the cord. Haul up then slowly, so as to make no noise; make a noose for the lady's foot, and lower her with care. You have the strength?"

"Ay, for twice her weight."

"Good; there will be naught to fear, madame, for I will be below to aid your footing. When I give the signal, again Rene will descend and join us."

"The rope is to be left dangling?"

"Only until I return. Once I leave you safe beyond the troquels, 'tis my task to climb this rope again. Some task that," cheerfully, "yet De Tonty deems it best that no evidence connect us with this escape. What make you the hour?"

"Between one and two."

"Which will give me time before day dawn; so here, I chance it."

He swung himself over the edge, and slipped silently down into the black mystery. We leaned over to watch, but could see nothing, our only evidence of his progress the jerking of the cord. D'Artigny's hand closed on mine. "Dear," he whispered tenderly, "we are alone now—you are sorry?"

"I am happier than I have ever been in my life," I answered, honestly. "I have done what I believe to be right, and trust God. All I care to know now is that you love me."

"With every throb of my heart," he said solemnly. "It is my love which makes me dread lest you regret."

"That will never be, monsieur; I am of the frontier, and do not fear the woods. Ah! he has reached the rock safely—'tis the signal."

D'Artigny drew up the cord, testing it to make sure the strands held firm, and made careful noose, into which he slipped my foot.

"Now, Adele, you are ready?"

"Yes, sweetheart; kiss me first." "You have no fear?" "Not with your strong hands to support, but do not keep me waiting long below."

Ay, but I was frightened as I swung off into the black void, clinging desperately to that slight rope, steadily slinking downward. My body rubbed against the rough logs, and then against rock. Once a jagged edge wounded me, yet I dare not release my grip, or utter a sound. I sank down, the strain ever greater on my nerves. I retained no knowledge of distance, but grew apprehensive of what awaited me below. Would the rope reach to the rock? Would I swing clear? Even as these thoughts began to horrify, I felt a hand grip me, and Boisronde's whisper gave cheerful greeting.

"It is all right, madame; release your foot, and trust me. Good, now do not venture to move, until Rene joins us. Faith, he wastes little time; he is coming now."

I could see nothing, not even the outlines of my companion, who stood holding the cord taut. I could feel the jagged face of the rock, against which I stood, and ventured, by reaching out with one foot, to explore my immediate surroundings. The groping toe touched the edge of the narrow shelf, and I drew back startled at thought of another sheer drop into the black depths.

My heart was still pounding when D'Artigny found foothold beside me. As he swung free from the cord, his fingers touched my dress.

"A fine test of courage that, Adele," he whispered, "but with Francois here below there was small peril. Now what next?"

LUTHERANS GROW

Increasing Most Rapidly of all Protestant Bodies.

THE FIGHTING MUHLENBERGS

Monument to the Lutheran Patriarch. His Son Peter Left the Pulpit for the Battle Line—Lutheran Bodies in Unification Movements.

When Christopher Columbus discovered America a miner's son in Germany was singing for bread that he might pursue his education, which was to fit him for developing the seeds of liberty which were destined to find root and largest growth in the Western Hemisphere, a love of liberty which promises today to prove the dominating force to liberalize the governments of the world and insure world freedom and world peace.

Lutherans very early had their representatives in America. In point of fact a Lutheran minister and a company of Danish Lutheran sailors came to America the year before the Pilgrim Fathers landed on Plymouth Rock.

First Settlers.

Holland Lutherans were among the first settlers in what is now Greater New York, while Swedish Lutherans were on the Delaware to greet and shake the hand of William Penn when he arrived to establish Pennsylvania. German Lutherans, too, came quite early in the history of the country. They were here in large numbers before the Revolution and furnished some of the stalwart troops who fought the battles for American liberty. Most notable among these were the Muhlenbergs, whose father, the Rev. Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, organized the first Lutheran synod in America as early as 1748.

The Lutheran Patriarch, a monument to whom in America is to be unveiled on the grounds of the Philadelphia Seminary at Mount Airy in October, had three sons whose careers illustrate the spirit of the early Lutherans in helping to make America. Peter was the famous General who threw off his preacher's robe, stepped down from the pulpit, enrolled nearly all his men as members of the colonial army and became one of Washington's chief aids. His brother Frederick was the first speaker of the House of Representatives, while the third brother, also a Lutheran clergyman, was the most eminent botanist in America in his day.

Growth.

From these humble beginnings, auspicious because of the typical Americanism of the leaders in Colonial Lutheranism, there has been a constant growth, at first slow, but gradually increasing until for a generation past Lutherans have been the most rapidly growing Protestant body in America.

The latest available statistics give them 65 synods, 9,831 ministers, 15,000 congregations, 3,774,774 baptized members. Their church property in this country is worth in round numbers $125,000,000.

Typically American.

Lutherans in America today are typically American in this that they count their adherents as America does her citizens, from many lands and of many tongues, preaching at the present time to citizens of this country in no less than seventeen different tongues.

This fact discounts the notion that some have that Lutherans are a German or a Scandinavian church. They are truly American in constituency and in spirit.

In faith Lutherans are ONE. In organization, which to the Lutheran is secondary, they have been separated, but through the Joint Celebration of

Healthy Skin Depends on Kidneys

The skin and the intestines, which work together with the kidneys to throw out the poisons of the body, do a part of the work, but a clean body and a healthy one depends on the kidneys. If the kidneys are clogged with toxic poisons you suffer from stiffness in the knees in the morning on arising, your joints seem "rusty," you may have rheumatic pains, pain in the back, stiff neck, headaches, sometimes swollen feet, or neuralgic pains—all due to the uric acid or toxic poisons in the blood. This is the time to go to the nearest drug store and simply obtain a 50c package of Anuric, the discovery of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. Then drink a cup of hot water before meals, with an Anuric Tablet, and notice the gratifying results. Anuric will help you, because it flushes the kidneys of impurities. You will find it many times more active than lithia. Dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Some years ago I was afflicted with woman's weakness. I suffered for several years, was weak, thin, could not eat, and was ready to give up until I learned of Dr. Pierce's Remedies. I purchased four bottles, with the 'Pleasant Pellets,' completely cured me. I have been healthy and strong ever since."—Mrs. Minnie Beyer, 237 Washington Street.

Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

WILLARD MAY MEET FULTON IN SPRING

(By International News.)
New York, Nov. 2.—(By International News.)—Willard is getting ready to fight Fred Fulton—unless someone comes along to bump him off the high perch he now occupies in the annals of light fans.

Promoters are now angling for the match. One of them, in fact, has made a definite offer to Willard to meet the "Mighty" Fulton in the spring. Willard, however, is not ready to do any scrap yet. Something definite, however, was said from Willard, when he said he would be ready to fight soon and that he would let the public know when the time came.

Whether Willard's business of running a clinic was responsible for his action in turning down the offer, the promoter's champion didn't say. It has been noted around—some say by Willard himself—that he wants to promote his own battle and take that much more out of it as his share. However, the promoter, by whom the offer was made, doubted whether Willard would bite off such a huge chunk of the prize as to believe that Willard would be able to do it. Willard, however, is not ready to let anyone else take care of his clinic, business and prepare for a championship battle at the same time.

Jim Corbett has angled for this fight without success. Willard has refused to fight him a long time ago when Willard and Gunboat Smith met in a twenty-round battle in California while the world was still waiting for a successor to Jack Johnson. Smith did the murdering and Willard has been howling of late that he was robbed of the decision because of Corbett. As a champion, Willard would have to be promoted if he was to take care of his clinic, business and prepare for a championship battle at the same time.

Fulton is going to get the match, though, and before another year has passed, under Willard simply comes out and retires in which case the title probably would be turned over to Fulton to defend in that event. A championship bout probably would be arranged immediately, for Fulton is the kind of a scrapper who doesn't sit back and wait for trouble. He goes and looks for it.

MAROONS WILL MEET ILLINOIS SATURDAY

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Although the Big Ten conference football title cannot possibly be picked away with the mouth balls after tomorrow's game, it remains that this week's schedule is all cluttered up with battles of the well-known "crucial" variety.

Eight members of the Big Ten will meet in inter-conference games at Madison, Wis., on Saturday. The games will be played in the following order: Illinois vs. Chicago, Ohio State vs. Indiana, and Michigan vs. Wisconsin.

The Ohio State-Indiana game is the most crucial on the schedule for the Big Ten. It is expected to have little difficulty in burying the Hoosiers. It would cause a mighty upheaval of the game, however, if Indiana should win and make it possible for the Hoosiers to win the title.

The real crucial contest will be in Chicago, where the hosts of Stagg and the Illini will wage bitter warfare. Either Chicago or Illinois is going to be pretty well eliminated from championship consideration. Naturally, the victor in this battle will be the one to play the Illini game on the real test of its 1917 eleven. It is the Illini who will have to make a real championship contender.

Illinois and Chicago will play Purdue by the same score and their followers see in this a basis for claiming the title. The game is a thrilling, hard-fought contest. More or less important are attached to it. Minnesota-Wisconsin game at Madison, Wisconsin is virtually out of the championship running through its defeat by Illinois, while Minnesota, with one conference victory in one game played still is very much of a factor in the race. Wisconsin is a team potentially strong, and if it can find itself long enough to slip a defeat to Minnesota, the Cup's hopes of a championship will go glimmering.

Northwestern and Purdue are both out of the running and have nothing to do except to enjoy the joy of winning. Both teams are pretty well fed up on defeat, however, and are expected to stage a brisk little scrap at La-Michigan will take on Kalamazoo at Ann Arbor in a game that means nothing in middle western football, and Iowa will get into action at Iowa City against the team representing the Great Lakes naval training station.

MORRIS MILLER

Miss Eileen Lee, the young English girl who last year swam from her home at Teddington, look on the Thames to Wapping and on the turn of the tide swam back again to Kewbridge, a distance of 38½ miles in ten hours 17½ minutes, has a new record to her credit. Not long ago she swam over the Amateur Swimming Association's course from Kew to Putney a distance of 5 miles 60 yards in 1 hour 16 minutes 12 seconds, which is the fastest any woman has swam over this course. Miss Lee's record, made a week previous.

Brown University's football hopes have been revived. Ralph Gordon, who created quite a stir at the Providence school as a freshman two seasons ago, has returned and is ready to play football. Ralph was ready to play football on account of injury. Gordon almost beat Harvard once. He is probably as good a kicker as there is in the East. He is an accurate drop-kicker. He is a star open field runner and classy at furnishing interference.

Willie Meehan, the San Francisco boxer, who started as a bantam and put on fat so rapidly that he is now a heavyweight, is the greatest freak in the ring today. Meehan is so fat that he has no impression upon him and he is so awkward that even the cleverest of opponents cannot figure out a way to reach him effectively. Despite the ludicrous appearance he makes in the ring, Meehan really knows a great deal about the game of fights and he is far from being the easy mark he looks. His most recent feat was defeating Jack Dillon, whom he outpointed handily in a bout at Philadelphia.

Good umpiring means more to baseball than the fans stop to consider, and for that reason the arrival of good arbitrators is always welcomed by the man in charge of the game. During the season just closed a former player of note took up umpiring as a profession, and the close of the campaign found him going along as smoothly as any of the umpires with years of experience behind them. The umpire referred to is George Moriarty. Early in the season Moriarty showed traces of becoming too excited when players kicked, but as the season wore on he became more lenient, though always ready to toss out a player who stepped beyond a certain line. He took the advice of the more experienced umpires and played the game more calmly, and had all the players pulling for his success.

Louis Guisto may yet play first base for Cleveland. He was on the bench most of the season just closed, and the reason for it is furnished by E. S. Bernard, one of the directors of the club. Bernard writes that Harris is a wonderful hitter, but only an ordinary fielder, while Guisto is the best fielding first baseman Cleveland has had in years, but could not get started with the bat. Like most managers Pohl wanted hitting strength, so he called Bernard's bluff. Bernard writes that Harris expects to be drafted to the army, and if he goes Guisto will have first call on the job next year. The management of the Cleveland club has not weakened on Guisto, and the big boy is expected to be a real major league ball player next year.

My Myers of the Brooklyn is a versatile player. He also is a most efficient player. Robinson thinks highly of him, and Hy is pretty sure of a job with the club again next year. But famous may see Hy at third base in 1918 instead of the outfield where he has cavorted for many a season. Hy has held down third base so capably and done so much better especially with the bat than O'Rourke that he will probably get the all important assignment next season. O'Rourke is an earnest athlete. He is not a bad fielder. But he is coming to batting is weak, indeed, and that is the reason why Myers will probably replace him next season.

The rumor that Washington may be dropped and that Toronto may have its franchise is interesting American League fans. Washington has never been much of a money-maker in the league and since most everyone at the capital is too much interested and occupied with the war to go to many ball games the attendance at the stadium has been very low. Toronto is favored as a successor to Washington chiefly because of the club's recent successes. Last season when it won the international pennant the fans supported the team in great shape and not only did it make money at home but it drew large crowds on the road. Larry Lajoie, the veteran star of the American League who piloted Toronto to a pennant last season, is a great favorite in the American league and many a fan would be happy to see him return in the role of manager. Toronto looks like a very satisfactory candidate for the big show and with Larry in charge it would please A. L. fans to see him right up in the pennant race.

Even the wise ones never seem to know when they're through. Freddy Welsh dropped out of sight for a while after being knocked out of his title, but he's back again now and he declares he will be the lightweight champ again. After a few bouts with second rate youngsters Freddy thinks he will be ready to tackle Leonard again and put him away. If Welsh is able to do it—and he won't find many to bet on him—it will be one of the very few times that anything of the sort ever happened. Welsh can't see anything to it but just an elegant come-back and so it looks like Freddy is to be rudely shaken up.

The Army and Navy are eager to get together for a big game this fall and the Middles are especially anxious to buck up against the soldier boy rival. The Army has a bit in stirring up enthusiasm in both departments of the service. Both Baker and Daniels have consented to an Army-Navy game this fall, but it seems that complete permission has not yet been forthcoming. The chances of the game, however, seem quite fair.

The tackling dummy used at Michigan had been known for some seasons as "Gertrude." Whenever Yost wanted to get a little life into the tackling practice he would ask his men to show less consideration for Gertrude's feelings. This season, however, the dummy has a new name and it gets less gentle treatment than heretofore. The new name is "Kaiser Bill." Yost seems to find that the change of name has put lots of pep into the tackling practice.

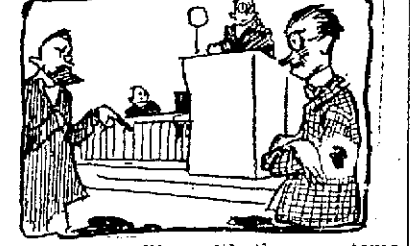

The idea is growing that Michigan and Ohio State are going to be the large athletic rivals of the West. Athletics in every department have been going right ahead to O. S. U. for several seasons in the football matter. Ohio State has slipped out in front. At any rate the two schools are situated geographically so that a large rivalry between them would flourish and prosper. And most everyone expects to see it develop.

Ted Lewis, welterweight champion, came near losing his title at San Francisco last night. Ted's opponent was Battling Ortega and the coast critics unite in saying that Ortega chased Ted all over the ring and deserved the award, but referee Jim Griffin rendered a draw decision.

Dinner Stories.

At a trial in Baltimore a youthful physician was summoned as a witness, and naturally the cross-examination was a lawyer seized the occasion to be sarcastic.

"Are you," demanded the lawyer,

"entirely familiar with the symptoms of concussion of the brain?" The young physician replied. "Yes sir, I am."

The smart lawyer put a hypothetical case before the doctor in this way:

"If my learned friend, Mr. Reid, and myself should bang our heads together would we get concussion of the brain?"

The young physician calmly replied, "Mr. Reid might."

She entered a downtown cigar store and the clerk left a regular customer to wait on her.

"I want to get a birthday present for my husband," agreed the clerk. "A box of nice cigars, now—"

"No, indeed!" she interrupted, firmly. "I've read enough funny paper jokes about the kind of cigars a woman buys. No, I want to buy him a pipe."

"One suited to a man about 41, though he doesn't look so old as that, 5 feet 9 inches tall, rather stout and with dark hair and mustache."

Irate Mamma—Goodness me! It's half an hour since I sent you to the shop to get those things, and here you come back without them.

Little Dick—It was such a long time before my turn came to be waited on that I forgot what it was you wanted.

"Then why didn't you come home and find out?"

"I was afraid if I left I'd lose my turn."

Everyone is looking for bargains these days. The Gazette classified columns contain many of them each day.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

The American Exhibitors' association is preparing to fight the war tax. Plans to this end already have been formulated and arrangements now being made to induce every exhibitor in the country to assist by presenting and presenting data showing actual results of the 10 per cent tax on all admissions, which went into effect November 1.

A general order has been sent to exhibitors throughout the country, asking that they prepare intelligent statements as to business done during the months of October and November. These statements are desired to include receipts, expenditures and profits for each period.

There is no question but what the tax is an injustice to the smaller neighborhood houses. While the larger centers, paid by the patron, seem a small item to many followers of the photo play, there are certain conditions wherein it may cause the small theater to shut up shop and cease to exist.

The results of the exhibitors' campaign will be watched with interest throughout the United States.

"Who Leads the National Army" is the picture distributed by Triangles, which is being shown in many theaters. It is from the story of Highway Callum and was directed by Victor L. Schertzinger.

ARMY DESERTER AND ALLEGED MURDERER APPEALS TO WILSON

Fred Hartin, held at County Jail for Alleged Murder, Wants Army Desertion Charges Suspended.

Fred Hartin, who has been held at the County Jail on the charge of murdering John Krause a year ago yesterday in a lonely shack near the river bank of Beloit, will be tried at the November term of the circuit court before Judge Cragin. His case is to come up Thursday, Nov. 15.

Hartin is so confident that he will be acquitted that he has written a letter to President Wilson, requesting that he see it that he will not be held by federal authorities for army desertion after he is freed. After the crime was committed Hartin left Beloit for Salt Lake City, where he headed in the signal corps under name of Fred Stevens. Later he deserted, but now he feels as though he would rather fight in the army than be kept in prison on desertion charges. He is not trying to dodge the penalty, but wants to serve his country now and take his sentence after peace is declared.

Hartin's letter, to which he has not yet received a reply, is as follows: "The President, White House—Sir: To be exact and brief, Nov. 1, 1916, a crime was committed of which I was accused. I listened to poor advice and cleared out. In Salt Lake City, two weeks later, I enlisted in the signal corps. Was sent back to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Was recognized and deserted, going to Baltimore, where I shipped on a British freighter as fireman, returning to this country after the states had declared war. When I discovered I had been a tall guy for certain parties. Am standing trial Nov. 15 this year. Will be acquitted, and as I enlisted as Ed. Stevens, whereas my name is Fred Hartin, and the government is asking for immunity, but as I am an American and a loyal one, I ask you as President and Father of the People to defer this case until after the war is over and in the meantime allow me to re-enlist under my right name and serve my country in her need. I am sure that a few lines from me to you, signed Fred Hartin, will be acted upon by officers in whose hands I shall be on my release from present charges of which I am held.

"I beg you, Sir, to give this favorable consideration. I am splendidly fit and able, too fit to be spending time now in a military prison when men are wanted at the front. I can stand prison when I am victorious. I am sure that a favorable reply that will allow me to attend my country in her need. I am sincerely,

"FRED HARTIN, Janesville, Wis., Care County Jail."

IS THAT SO? "The Germans Land Soldiers Upon Dago Island." The headline reads that way. I wonder, I wonder, if some one has not made a serious error. Perhaps it's a grim typographical blunder. "Upon Dago Island." That Doesn't sound likely. To judge by the news we have had from Trentino. And other points where King Emmanuel's fighters have spilled all the beans in the Kaiser's turret. The Austrians who have been chased through the mountains, Pursued by Italians, rheumatics, lumbago. Will never believe that the Kaiser has landed On anything known by the title of "Dago."

"Don't rock the boat," was the American slogan handed out by the German commander of the submarine. "Don't rock the boat—torpedo it." When my kid grows up and says: "Dad, why didn't you go and fight the Kaiser in 1917?" I will tell him firmly by the ear and lead him over to the family safe, and I will open the safe and take out a few liberty bonds, and I will say, "I was too old to fight, but I did the next best thing and bought these."

TRY THIS ON THE I. W. W. IMPERIALS OF CHILM'S WORKERS.

For the first time it occurs to a good many "constant theatergoers" of our acquaintance that the war is becoming serious. The new war tax of ten cents on each theater pass is to blame.

There are a lot of perennial pass-holders who don't believe that any show is worth ten cents.

"What do they mean by this pan-German stuff?" asked our thoughtful elevator man, "aren't we punishing the Germans all the time now?"

HIGH COST OF LOVING. November 1 the government sticks on the new war tax. If the young Romeo expects to marry the gal he would better do it this month for the cost of courting is going up.—The new tax hits every phase of life. They will remain at the same price. The government did not tax them, believing, probably, that they are already expensive enough. Here are the bumps, Lothario. Three-cent stamps on love letters. Ten cents extra for theater tickets. Additional price for phone calls over the fifteen cent rate.

Increased taxi rate. War taxes on cigars for her father. Ten per cent increase on engagement rings.

Special war stamp on marriage license. Tax on honeymoon tickets. Only a few more days to do your matrimonial shopping at the old rate.

After Nov. 1, engagements at the front will be much cheaper than those at home.

EXPECT FIRE LOSS TO REACH MILLIONS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Baltimore, Nov. 2.—A disastrous fire which reached two of the finest of the city's buildings, the R. B. terminal piers at the foot of the city, and spread to a British steamship that had just docked at one of the piers for loading, broke out last night, causing the probable loss of seven lives and a financial loss estimated at between three and four million dollars before subdued. Five of the missing men were members of the crew, among them were two ship officers and the chief gunners of the British naval crew aboard. Already the police have arrested one man in their investigation.

The steamer will be towed into shallow water and scuttled in order to extinguish the fire, which was still burning in her hold at 11:00 a. m.

Hanover, Nov. 2.—Sunday, Nov. 4, will mark the climax of the jubilee in the Lutheran church at Hanover. While the reformation and the great reformer, Martin Luther, have been treated in sermons and lectures within the last month, the various blessings of the reformation having been brought forth and the life of Luther made the subject of various lectures, the real celebration of the quadricentennial will be observed by special all-day services. The pastor, P. Felten, will deliver the jubilee sermon in the German language at 10 a. m., taking for his subject "The Reformation Not a Revolution." The Lord is My Shepherd, but the Greatest Blessing for Church and State. At 2:30 p. m. the English service will be held, the pastor preaching on "The Great Reformation Theme." In both services a special envelope collection will be taken up by the congregation for the jubilee fund.

No Need of Explanation.

Mother had gone out for a few minutes, and when she returned a portion of the dinner was slightly burned. "It is too bad it happened, but it will have to be served anyway. I'll explain to them and apologize," Jennie overheard and remarked soothingly: "Don't feel bad about it, mother. You won't have to explain to them—they can taste it's burnt, themselves."

Natural Aristocracy.

The democratic element in modern society is undoubtedly gaining in strength every year, and there is no good reason for lamenting its advance. But it will never do away with the natural aristocracy which has made skill in the conduct of business the endowment or the acquisition of a few. The weakness of co-operative production thus far has been its gross undervaluation of the manager.—Nicholas Faline Gilman.

THREE ARRESTED FOR RIDING ON SIDEWALK

Chief of Police P. D. Champion Arrests Three for Driving on Side.

Chief of Police P. D. Champion and his staff of police patrolmen have taken a determined stand on the question of whether people driving motorcycles, automobiles or bicycles may make use of the sidewalks on South Main street now that the street is undergoing repair. In the past three or four days three arrests have been made and the offenders have been brought before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court on charges of violating the city ordinances.

Two of the offenders drove motorcycles on the sidewalk and one drove an automobile. Loren Ormsby was the first to be arrested three days ago and when he appeared he entered a plea of guilty and his case was adjourned until next week.

Thursday afternoon Shirley Fisher appeared on a charge of driving a motorcycle on the sidewalk and entered a plea of not guilty and had his case set over until November 7. Ernest Bullock drove his automobile over the sidewalks and was arrested and had his trial set for November 7. The three were set over by the judge so that he would have an opportunity of looking over the situation.

The offenders claim that because of the street being torn up it is impossible for them to reach their destinations on Main street. Whether this will be accepted as a reason for the breaking of the city ordinance will be determined when the cases are tried November 7.

WAR EFFECTS FOOD

STUFFS IN DENMARK

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Copenhagen, Nov. 2.—Prediction of a more serious condition in the near future as affecting Denmark's supply of fuel, raw materials for industry and food stuffs is made by the National Bank of Denmark in a summary of the economic and financial situation in this country.

In the latter half of the year, says the report, owing to the German U-boat war, navigation met with such dangers as to become practically a gamble in which the stakes were life and property. Part of the navigation stopped altogether and imports were very considerably restricted, partly by destruction or seizure of cargoes, partly by refusal of exports to Denmark by the belligerent powers, conditions accentuated by the entrance of the United States into the war. "Denmark's trade balance during the war has been good. Our agriculture and navigation have earned profits which have more than covered the expenditure, and our exports have exceeded our imports. We have, therefore, been able to pay our foreign debts and we have great outstanding debts abroad in bills, in credits and in foreign securities. This is a very well, but it would have been more fortunate if for part of the profits we had been able to obtain the exports we want, and which are now more urgently needed than ever before. As is well known, this has not been possible. We have not been masters in our own house as regards imports nor even as regards exports. Only when it was absolutely necessary have the latter been stopped, for export prohibition always impairs one group of home interests and exposes us to the risk of further restrictions of the import of articles in which the shortage may be even more fatal. Important political considerations also come into play here.

The general level of prices has been raised in Denmark and Sweden by 50 per cent, in Norway by more than 75 per cent, and in England by about 100 per cent.

REPORT CONTAGIOUS DISEASES IN CITY

Health Officer S. B. Buckmaster Reports Ten Cases of Scarlet Fever in City at Present Time.

Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, city health officer, in his report which has been turned over to the city commission, urges the utmost care on the part of the public to avoid the spread of contagious diseases at this time, especially scarlet fever. This is the season when the diseases of a contagious nature are the most harmful and the health officer believes that with the co-operation of the public the city will eradicate the dangerous afflictions.

The report shows that ten cases of scarlet fever are in the city at the present time. These cases are, however, the only contagious diseases reported at the present time. The report further shows 19 marriages, 21 births and 17 deaths for the month of October.

The October report of the municipal court has also been filed with the clerk and shows that twenty men charged with drunkenness have been sentenced during the past month. Two also appeared before the court on charges of violating the city ordinances and one was fined for killing squirrels out of season.

EXPERT CHEFS WILL FEED THE SOLDIERS

New York Hotel Chefs Will Teach Navy Men the Intricacies of the Epicurean Art.

An opportunity to become cooks to learn the trade in some of New York's biggest hotels and cafes is offered to those who enlist in the commissary staff of the navy.

Lieutenant Commander John V. Schoenfeld, in charge of the navy recruiting station at 222 Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., has received word that arrangements have been made by which men without any previous experience can learn cooking in the kitchens of the great hotels in New York. The proprietors have consented to let their famous chefs become instructors of the men who will help to feed Uncle Sam's sea fighters.

Men with little knowledge of the cook can only get a small amount of money as janitors for cooks. This means that they will have to serve for the period of the war only.

Enlistment in the regular navy he must serve for four years.

When peace comes the men who have entered this branch of the navy service will have learned a profitable trade without any expense to themselves and will be in a position to get good jobs at high pay, for cooks are always in demand.

Pay begins as soon as a man enlists. During the time that a man is learning the trade he will draw his salary the same as if he were working. In addition to his pay, a man gets food, clothing and lodging at the government expense. A man who enlists in the navy gets a steady job, and a steady income.

Men who enlist in the naval reserve as land-men for cooks will get $32.50 a month in addition to all expenses during the period of training and will during the war receive a higher pay as they qualify for higher ratings. A first-class cook gets $53 a month, a second-class cook $45, a third-class cook $41, a fourth-class cook $37, a cabin cook $35, a cabin steward $31, a steward $27, and a cabin steward $23.

These and higher ratings are open to inexperienced men who make the "Y. M. C. A." a goal.

This is a golden opportunity to the man who wants to learn a trade at government expense. Every man who wants to help himself and his nation at the same time is urged to enlist. Ask any postmaster or recruiting officer, or write to the recruiting station in Milwaukee.

deep blue and purple shadows lying in its quiet depths. A mountain range is another pleasing scene. The whole effect is to have it grow dim and fade away into the softness of the distance toward the top of the mountain. The effect has been very successfully accomplished. The lady in question, is Mrs. Wm. Axon, of 1001 W. 1st, and although she has assisted somewhat by men who have assisted in the artistic effects accomplished are due entirely to her.

CAMP GRANT BOYS ARE A HAPPY LOT

Co. C, 21st Machine Gun Battalion, which has been at Camp Grant, Ill., since the boys of the camp have been given their various duties, but these stories are without any foundation as the boys of the camp are all enjoying themselves immensely and all like their new life.

Wolves back home have no need to worry that their boy is not happy for he is being treated in the best manner. The lads are all enthusiastic over their new life and are working hard to accomplish the same purpose. The chances for promotion in the new army are excellent. One-third of the quota of the next officers' training camp is going to consist of men chosen from the army. Most of the boys realize what an opportunity this is and are studying hard so they may earn a chance to enter the next training camp for officers.

The environment of the camp is of the highest order and could not be found in any one of the big business firms of this country. There are no rowdies in the national army. One would not be tolerated and would find things very unpleasant. The men have drawn no social life and every one is as good as the other; millionaires mingle with poor men, etc. Each company is like a big family and the company spirit which has developed in the separate companies is wonderful.

Company C of the 21st Machine Gun Battalion is a fine example of the way company spirit is being developed. The company when they arrived in camp were as green in regard to soldiering as anyone possibly could be, but after four weeks of training they have made excellent progress and bid fair to have a great organization, and one that the people of the community from which they came can well be proud of.

In the first place they have for a captain, L. F. Foote, a man of sterling qualities, and one who the boys are strong for. The men all claim he is without a doubt the best captain in the camp. Captain Foote has on his staff Lieutenants Barton, Gibson, McIntosh, Maher and Humanson. As in the case of the captain the boys are all behind the lieutenants, and they have just cause for feeling so.

With such a staff of officers, assisted by an efficient staff of non-commissioned officers, Company C is going to make a strong bid for glory and all in its power to have one of the better companies of the eighty-sixth division.

Parents of the boys can well feel satisfied that their boys are in one of the greatest training camps in the United States.

Everything possible is being done to help the men and make them feel satisfied with their new home. From reveille in the morning until taps at night there is not a dull minute for the men.

After retreat at 5:30 o'clock in the evening the men turn toward enjoyment and they are not required to go to bed. They have a fine piano, several song birds and a victrola in their barracks, and if the men tire of this sort of amusement they can go to the Y. M. C. A. a half block away, where every evening there is an entertainment of the highest order.

When one takes into consideration the great benefit the men are getting from this training and the excellent way they are being treated, he can rest assured that there are no discontented men in the eighty-sixth division of the national army.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Nov. 2.—At a meeting of the Cold Spring Dairy company last week, it was decided to close up the creamery for a while at least, after November 1. The call of the conscription has been too strong, and one of the patrons found the burden of operating too heavy. The creamery has been running continually for thirty-five years and some of the present patrons have been delivering milk to the plant for that length of time.

ALL QUIET IN THE AMERICAN TRENCHES

CORRESPONDENT FINDS AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE ARE COMFORTABLY SHELTERED AND IN HIGH SPIRITS.

BATTLE MUD AND RAIN

Are Proud That They Are the First Americans in the First Line of Trenches for Humanity.

(By Newton C. Banks.)

(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

American Field Headquarters in France, Nov. 2.—Battling old Jupiter Pluvius is the hardest job the American troops have encountered since entering the trenches.

Today was the first day it has not rained since the doughboys hit the first line. To vary the weather program, blinding sheets of snow bombarded the trenches Saturday and Sunday nights.

The International News Service representative and other correspondents made their first visit to the sector held by the Americans Saturday afternoon. It must be said in truth that the American soldiers, wives and sweethearts, entering the trenches for the first time, and dying under terrible shell fire have made the wrong estimate of conditions.

These misguided relatives should picture to themselves a peaceful Ohio farm with the rain beating down in torrents, flooded creeks and vast fields soggy with ponds, and they would have a much more correct scene of this battlefield.

About all that is needed to complete the picture is to supply the few flashes out of the guns on the hills by fireworks, the flashes being accompanied by occasional bangs as though someone was banging the old barn door.

Despite such disagreeable weather, the position of the doughboys in the worst in the world by any means, and even from a weather standpoint is not to be compared with the conditions faced by the British and French troops many times during the war.

Victims our allies are many times forced to spend many nights in a cold rain while the protected, the new positions of the Samurais in the first, second and third line trenches are provided with duckboards, keeping the men's feet as dry as possible under the circumstances.

Ordinary communication trenches, however, are filled with water, but it is even possible to avoid much exposure by the use of duckboards.

The dugouts are roomy, warm and comfortable, and the men are well provided with food which is brought up nightly after having been cooked in the reserve lines.

Our party covered a great distance to examine the camps, arriving at noon at the villages in the rear, where the Americans were billeted before they entered the trenches.

We passed the lines of the khaki clad American supply wagons which were sandwiched along the road in with the blue French camions.

While awaiting our escort to the trenches, American motorcycle couriers went slipping and sliding by in the thick mud and occasionally an American officer galloped by on horseback.

We arrived finally at a village immediately behind the right American sector, from where we could plainly hear the booming of the guns.

The American ambulances were drawn up before the American field hospital in which the surgeons were discussing the case of the first German prisoner.

Our party then swung off toward the battle front, taking advantage of the heavy rain and thick mist and proceeded much farther than autos are able to go.

We halted at a small village where a French officer who was to be our escort, met us and where we left our automobiles and started for the front.

The route led first to the American artillery positions through fields knee high in water, which, in many places, forced small rivulets up over the brow of the hill where the guns were pounding away.

On we went, along a narrow railroad used as a transport line to a high point from where the French officer pointed out the German positions on hills barely visible through the mist.

Here one of the many little incidents attending this war occurred.

A French captain, wearing spectacles, emerged from the dugout and addressed us in perfect English. An American lieutenant accompanying us, stepped forward and said to the French captain:

"Aren't you Professor —?"

The captain replied:

"Certainly."

Then he added, "Why, hello, there, Mr. So and So, how are you getting along?"

It developed that the captain was a former instructor in French in a small New England college, and that one of the correspondents in our party formerly attended his classes.

The American major, then provided guides, who led the way along the narrow communication trench in which the sides were covered with twisted branches, preventing cave-ins, and mud.

The Samurais scattered around the machine gun emplacements and throughout the trenches looked curiously at the first party of visitors they had had since they entered the first line.

Upon learning that the visitors were Americans they began shouting to them:

"Tell them all about it in Kan-kah-ka!" one shouted.

"How do you like our steam-heated Bronx apartment?" called another.

Several times as we passed along the first line, the German first line but 200 yards away, the guide warned us to stoop to keep from being picked off by a German sniper.

The men in the first line trenches are becoming quite accustomed to their work and all agreed that this sector had been the quietest since their arrival.

The Germans have thrown few shrapnel shells toward these trenches. A flying piece of shell struck the helmet of a Connecticut soldier, denting the helmet, but not injuring the man. The easily frightened men that the helmets should never be removed.

The men assigned to night patrol duty out in the muddy No Man's Land were moving silently toward the first line as the first party returned. Thus far they said the member of their battalion had encountered no Germans, although all had heard of the capture of a German prisoner by another section.

They were all anxious to give details of the capture, but regretted very much that they did not land the first "Boche." They are anxious, however, with the hope of being the first Americans to enter the battle line in Europe under the Stars and Stripes.

The American batteries were still firing as we made our way back in utter darkness, while a shower of flame was lighting up the distant sky like like distant flashes of lightning, and while the shells were whining overhead, the Germans were not replying to the American shots.

U. S. ENGINEERS NOW WORKING UNDER FIRE

(By International News Service.) American Field Headquarters, France, Nov. 2.—Somewhere in an active sector, the American Railroad Engineers are running trains right up to the front. They are the first American regiment to come under shell-fire in the great war.

An entire railroad system, from the general manager's office to the beat of the lonely track walker, has been handed over to the Samurais by the French war office. Trains manned by American boys are moving on a strict schedule, carrying shells for the guns, food for the French troops and the daily movement of postmen going forward or coming back on leave to rest.

Temporarily the regiment is loaned to the French for the operation of that railroad. The Samurais may say on the job there for the duration of the war or they may be shifted to some other line. They get French rations and their road is a part of the French system. But they wear their own uniforms, draw American pay and run the train by their own method, which means economy of man-power.

At some points their line is within the range of the Boche guns and the shells crump at random along the right-of-way. At night there is danger of Boche aeroplanes slipping through the tight French aerial patrol and bombing the Samurais at work.

This has happened, but so far our troops have had no casualties.

I was with engineers last night when they marched to the troop train to move forward. The move was made without any unnecessary sound to guide Boche air raiders. Along pitch-dark streets they swung through to the town to the music of their own hob-nails beating on flat pavements.

The bandmen were there with their horns smothered in green kinomats to prevent the moonlight from glinting on the brass.

The American commander kept the time of departure secret so that half the town would not stay awake till 1 a. m. to see the boys off.

U. S. EMPLOYEES NOW ENJOY PROSPERITY

(By International News Service.) Washington, Nov. 2.—A new war is on among government department heads for labor. So flagrant has become the rival bidding for employees to man the many new bureaus that the puzzled executives are making agitated protests to congress.

The government clerks, some of whom haven't had a raise in pay since Polk's administration, are feeling a bit of war prosperity.

"They are fairly robbing me!" declared Secretary Redfield, referring to the new shipping board. He said they were taking all his experts who have done their experting heretofore for $1,500 a year, and starting them out at from $2,200 to $4,000. His complaint at from $2,200 to $4,000, was being ruinously disorganized.

Stricter rules are in force against transfers of civil service employees from one department to another. But the men simply quit and soon get another job with another department head who rarely proves particularly inquisitive as to their past if they can do the work.

Before the war, Washington was strictly a low-wage town. Congressmen found more votes were gained by spending appropriations in their districts back home than in raising Clerk Bill Jones' pay from $550 to $630 a year.
